

BARRE WON FINAL GAME

Of Baseball From Tenth Cavalry, Score 4 to 3

PLAYING LACKED GINGER

Score Was 4 to 3 and Was Largely Due to Good Pitching by Gabelloni, Who Allowed But Four Hits to Colored Men.

In what was probably the last game of the season of 1910, the Barre Athletic club defeated the Tenth Cavalry team from Fort Ethan Allen at Rangers field Saturday afternoon by the score of 4 to 3. Although the game was fast enough to make the outcome always in doubt, the players of both teams seemed to lack the snap displayed in some of the midsummer games. The weather on the whole was more suited to football, a cold west wind prevailed throughout the game, and even the semi-occasional appearance of Old Sol did not serve to infuse additional life into the players. As many as 250 fans of the day-in-the-week variety, however, witnessed the game from the bleachers in overcoats, gloves, ear-laps and other winter apparel.

Gabelloni was on the firing-line for the locals, with Fowle behind the bat, and had the Indian sign on the colored men at nearly every stage of the game. Except for the fourth round, when things broke luckily for them, the soldiers had hardly a show at the scoring. Benson did the honors for the visitors and fought gamely to hold the opposing swiftness within bounds.

Barre registered a run in the third, when R. Johnson singled into left, reached on Berry's error, and scored on a fielder's choice. In the fifth inning, L. Wright was safe at first on Jackson's error, stole the second sack and crossed the plate when Gabelloni eluded the leather into center for two bases. The latter went to third on Franklin's assist to Jackson, scoring when Jackson failed to field W. Johnson out at first. The winning run came in the eighth, when, with one man down, R. Johnson tickled the colored twirler for three bases and scored on Fowle's long sacrifice fly into center.

The tale of the soldiers' run-getting is briefly told. In the fourth inning, Bishop, first up, was safe at first on L. Wright's error, but died at second, Wishart to W. Johnson. In the meantime, Benson was safe at first on a fielder's choice, went to second when Berry was passed. Harden then came to the fore with a wallop into left for the entire circuit of the sacks, incidentally registering three runs for his teammates. The next two men failed, and the round was over. ### Notes on the Game.

The season's series between the two teams now stands tied, with four games each. R. Johnson's catch of Franklin's line drive in the seventh was one of the features of the game. McKerrie led the locals in batting, hitting safely three times for singles. The playing of Bishop at third and Berry at short easily featured the work of the visiting team. W. Johnson played with the locals for the first time and made good. He hit safely once and is credited with three putouts and three assists. Murray made no less than five putouts for the visitors in center field.

DOES LAJOIE LEAD?

He Made Eight Hits Yesterday in Eight Times at Bat.

Cleveland, Oct. 10.—By making eight hits in eight times at bat in St. Louis yesterday, Napoleon Lajoie of the Cleveland team pulled ahead of Ty Cobb of Detroit in the race for the batting championship of the American league. According to the unofficial figures, Lajoie's average now is .388 and Cobb's .383.

MRS. GREEN WATCHES LABORERS.

Couldn't Rest Until Stone Posts Were Locked In the Woodshed.

Bellows Falls, Oct. 10.—Hetty Green, one of America's richest women, with an income of $16,000 a day, waited five hours Saturday on the rocky steps of her former home here, while workmen removed several old, crumbling stone posts from the wall in front of the house.

"I'm so tired, I wish I could go and lie down, but I couldn't rest if I did, until I knew these posts had been taken into the woodshed and I had turned the key on them," she added to a reporter. "I am 79 years old, and I get tired more quickly than I used to; and I'm growing to look so old that I'm ashamed to have my picture in the newspapers. To look at me now you wouldn't believe that I was a handsome woman once," she continued. "I had the most beautiful long eyelashes, and my hair was a golden brown, and so long I could sit on it. My nostrils were thin and my cheeks were so pink and pretty."

Mrs. Green then told of her business at her New York bank. She did not feel different from anyone else because she was rich. She had always worked hard. She was a religious woman and believes that the soul lives after death. "I own only forty houses," she remarked. "I put the most of my money in mortgages and let other people worry about the taxes. I saved widows in Chicago from being put out of their homes. Some one was going to foreclose the mortgages and I bought them up."

Mrs. Green spoke with pride of this benevolence on her part.

Newspaper Errors.

Some people seem to think they prove their own brilliancy by being able to point out errors in a newspaper. After taking their leisure to pick flaws in work that had to be done in a hurry, they call the newspaper man by telephone or hail him on the street, for wrong capitalization or a split infinitive, if they can find nothing more serious. Every one makes mistakes in his profession, but with most people only the less known about it. The newspaper man's mistakes are spread out for all the world to see. The conditions of newspaper making demand that it be done at high pressure. If the editor went at his task with the extreme caution manifested by the lawyer when he writes a will, there would not be time to do much writing. And few people realize what infinite pains even under existing conditions are taken to avoid error so far as possible. The bulk of the mistakes are the result of inaccurate information given to reporters.—Springfield Reporter.

SLOW START BY GODDARD

Defeated, 17 to 0, by Norwich University's Second Team

SCORING WAS DONE EARLY

Thompson, the Visitors' Quarterback, Dropped Two Goals from the Field, and They Scored Two Touchdowns Besides.

Goddard seminary was shut out, 17 to 0, in its opening game of the season, played Saturday afternoon on the local gridiron with the Norwich university seconds. Coach Potter of Norwich came over with 17 men, most of whom he tried out before the game was over. Goddard was outweighed by the visitors, and for the first half of the game appeared timid about getting into the game for business, which was probably due to the fact that it was the first team it has tackled this fall. However, in the last half of the game Goddard's timidity wore off and the players put up an even game against their opponents.

The game consisted of four 12-minute periods, and all of the scoring by Norwich was done in the first two periods. The feature of the game was two goals from the field, drop-kicked from the 26-yard line by Thompson, the Norwich quarterback. Both of these goals were made in the first period, and in the second period Taft and Collins each scored a touchdown. The first touchdown was made in the east corner of the field, and Norwich punted in to Burr, who failed to make a fair catch and lost a chance to kick goal. Thompson kicked the goal from the second touchdown.

The Goddard team has good weight this year and showed that it has good material, which with a little more experience will develop into a strong eleven. Chapel started the game in the quarterback's position, but he at once showed lack of executive ability for this place, and in the last half of the game, when Fisk, the left half back, exchanged places with him, there was a noticeable difference in the working of the team. Chapel is fast on his feet and an aggressive player and did good work as halfback. Goddard has a good line, which three times held the visitors for downs when their opponents were backing them with old-fashioned line drives.

There was a good deal of fumbling on both sides, and Goddard showed another weakness in tackling, all of their tackles being made around the neck or body, instead of the knees, which was responsible for a good deal of the ground gained by their opponents.

First Period.

N. U. kicked off to Goddard, and Scott, who caught the ball, was downed on the seminary's 25-yard line. On the first rush Goddard fumbled and lost the ball to Norwich, who made two line rushes, which netted them only five yards, and Thompson then signaled for a drop-kick, and he booted the ball high over the goal bar for a goal from the field. Score, 3 to 0.

The ball was brought in to Goddard's 25-yard line, as Goddard's ball. Scampini went around right end for five yards, but on the next rush the ball was fumbled and Norwich got it. Norwich failed to make their distance in three rushes and Goddard regained the ball on downs. In the second rush, Goddard lost the ball again on a fumble and on their 23-yard line. Thompson then stepped back to the 23-yard line and drop-kicked his second goal. Score, 6 to 0.

This time Goddard punted back from the 23-yard line to the center of the field. Norwich tried the forward pass, and Richardson caught it for Goddard. Scampini then punted to N. U.'s 35-yard line. N. U. punted to Chapel, who fumbled the catch, and N. U. got the ball on Goddard's 40-yard line just as time was up for the first period.

Second Period.

After a three-minute rest, playing was resumed on Goddard's 40-yard line, with the ball in N. U.'s possession. Thompson punted 20 yards to Chapel, who failed to catch the ball, and Norwich regained it after it had rolled to Goddard's 8-yard line. N. U. tried two rushes against the line with no gain, and on the next rush the ball was fumbled and Goddard got it. Goddard then tried the forward pass, but Taft of N. U. caught the ball and ran back across the goal line for a touchdown. Score, 11 to 0.

Goddard kicked to Norwich's 15-yard line and Taft ran back with it to N. U.'s 45-yard line, before he was downed. N. U. worked the forward pass for 20 yards and gained five more on two line rushes. Thompson then attempted a drop-kick for a goal from the 30-yard line, but the ball hit a player and bounded to Goddard's 12-yard line, where Chapel fell on it. Scampini then punted back to Goddard's 35-yard line. N. U. made 15 yards on a forward pass and on the next rush were penalized five yards for offside. Another forward pass for 15 yards brought the ball to the forward line, and Collins went through the line for the second touchdown. Thompson kicked the goal. Score, 17 to 0. Goddard kicked off just as time was up.

Third Period.

Goddard kicked to N. U. and the ball was downed on the latter's 25-yard line. N. U. punted 25 yards. Scampini punted into the trees by the grandstand and a Goddard player fell on it when it landed. The ball was brought in to the 17-yard line and Scampini attempted a drop-kick for the goal. His foot struck the ground, and the ball bounced over the line and an N. U. back caught it and ran around the end. Scampini tackled the runner hard, injuring his leg so that he retired from the game. N. U. fumbled on the first rush and Goddard got the ball on N. U.'s 10-yard line. Goddard then had its first real chance to score, but fumbled after making three yards around right, and lost the ball to N. U. Stevens picking the pigskin up and scooting down the field for 35 yards. Goddard then held for downs, just as time was up.

Fourth Period.

Goddard had the ball at the start, and the result of the period was practically the same as the previous one. Fisks and Scampini made some good end games and Thompson of N. U. made a 30-yard run to Goddard's 10-yard line, just as

NEITHER SIDE SCORED.

Montpelier Seminary and Burlington High at Montpelier.

Montpelier seminary and Burlington high school put up a close and exciting game of football at Montpelier Saturday afternoon. The teams were evenly matched, but Montpelier put up a steady and more consistent game than Burlington. Burlington has played four or five games, but has not yet been scored upon. Considering that this was the first game for Montpelier and also that M. S. has many green men, the whole backfield being new in their positions, the work of the seminary is very creditable. Montpelier won the toss-up and chose to receive the kick-off. M. S. got the ball on their own 15-yard line and went steadily up the field without losing the ball, until the whistle blew for the end of the first period with the ball in possession of Montpelier on B. H. S.'s 14-yard line.

In the second period, Montpelier seemed sure of a touchdown, but fumbled on the four-yard line and Burlington got the ball. At the end of the second period Montpelier had the ball in the middle of the field. At the beginning of the third period, Montpelier kicked off to Burlington and held the ball in Burlington's territory; the whistle blew with the ball on Burlington's 27-yard line, in possession of M. S.

In the last period Burlington came back hard and carried the ball down to Montpelier's twenty-yard line, where the game ended. Burlington could gain nothing through the line, and their only gains were made by trick plays and quarterback runs around right end. Capt. Conner and Freedman did star work for Montpelier, both in tackling and line blocking, both of them going through the line for eight or ten yards nearly every time they were given the ball. Morse played a star game at tackle, and quarterback Martin was steady and sure in all his plays, except one fumble on Burlington's four-yard line, barring which M. S. would probably have scored a touchdown.

PLAYED A TIE GAME.

Vermont and Maine Failed to Score at Burlington.

Burlington, Oct. 10.—The university of Vermont's last home game of the football season with the university of Maine resulted in a tie Saturday, neither team being able to score. The tackling of McIntosh, the Vermont captain, and Maine's excellent punting were the principal features. At no time was either goal line in danger.

years. The light Holy Cross eleven kept Yale to a dozen points, which must cause great concern in New Haven. Princeton could do no better than equal that against New York university, while Cornell and Brown could not score on Oberlin and Colgate, respectively. A field goal won the day for Amherst at Wesleyan. Dartmouth had something soft in Colby, but 18 points proved the limit. Dartmouth is apparently traveling at its usual early season slow gait. Over in one corner stood the bride, a husky young girl of perhaps eighteen, dressed in traditional white with a meager veil cheerfully doing its best to flutter and flow in the breeze from the wing dows. She sat by her mother. Her broad, rather dull face was rosy now and glowing. She breathed deep, smiling to herself, now glancing at the coarse white roses in her lap, now at the dancers, now at her brand-new husband, a tall, thin Pole who, stood stiff and awkward, but grinning with delight. When a man came over and seized her hand, she bounced up with a quick laugh. And then came new excitement.

For every male guest is expected to ask the bride to dance; and, to defray wedding expenses, the price of each dance is a dollar. On the floor is a thick white plate, upon which the guest may throw his coin with all his force, and if he breaks it his money is returned. But whether from the generous caution of the guests or the thickness of the plate provided by the bride's discreet mamma, this accident rarely happens. And often, if the bride be a belle and the groom a good fellow, the sum amounts to two or even three hundred dollars—with enough left over to furnish the new American home which is to begin on the morrow.

New homes, new music and dancing, new energy, new vital hopes are hers. For it is the lustiest youth, the very bone and sinew of Poland, that is now crowding in, to help make the new race of the future.—Ernest Poole in the October Everybody's.
